Design of water control systems be such as to provide the maximum opportunity to achieve the best land uses.

All efforts be made to provide adequate water control facilities and place the organic soils in use as quickly as possible to forestall the wasteful loss of soils in lands not in use.

Report To Point Out

(Continued from page 1) all cooperating agencies. The report shows that rich peat lands in the Everglades are subsiding by slow oxidation from biochemical action and fire loss in undeveloped areas through drainage, and mechanical compaction in the improved areas.

However, on the basis of controlled water table experiments conducted at the Everglades Experiment Station here, it is shown that the use of the existing soil resources can be prolonged.

The data shows where virgin peat is drained but not cultivated, there has been a greater loss of soil mass than on adjacent farmed areas.

Whenever such land is left put to use the loss in soil mass and in depth is greater than the adjacent farmed areas, provided they had equal drainage.

For that reason peat lands should be put to use as soon as possible and used as intensively as possible to achieve the maximum potential production and benefits.

Where such drained peat lands exist, the soils eventually have lowered and the continued loss in soil elevation will present greater drainage problems as the land surface nears the rock level.

On the strength of the data available, it is believed extensive agricultural improvements are effected.

Their recommendations are Land development by private dicted on the expected life of the soils and the land capacity. Land and water use practices be improved to obtain the maximum productive life of the soils.

Design of water control systems be such as to provide the maximum opportunity to achieve the best land uses.

He gets a picture of the weather by Long Distance

Tomorrow's weather is on the wires today for the forces which guard this Nation's skies and shores.

Today the largest Long Distance network of its kind brings them detailed
"weather" weathercharts around the clock.
These charts are sent by a system
known as "facsimile" from the Weather
Analysis Center in Washington, D. C.
There, an electric eye scans the weather
"picture" as it turns on a special drum.
The signal waves produced go out over thousands of miles of wire to military installations throughout the country where the picture is automatically reproduced.

This weather network was designed and completed in less than two years. It's another demonstration of the importance of Long Distance lines to the security of the Nation—especially right now, when there may be stormy weather ahead.

What the FORD NAME means to those who feed America!

MODEL T FORD

LABORATORY RESEARCH

1917 FORDSON TRACTOR

TODAY'S FORD TRACTOR

From the beginning, the name "Ford" has identified a company that understands the needs and wants of farmers. To millions of farmers, the Ford name recalls the cars and trucks that could always "get through"—and Ford-built tractors that took away much of the drudgery of farming.

Just ahead of the "Model T" tractor came new and better farm markets—a practical way to carry farm goods to a better education—new vistas and opportunities for the entire farm family.

The Ford name means the millions of dollars that went into research for crops convertible into industrial products and for ways of converting them. The Ford Motor Company's soybean oil extractor, that opened a huge market for this great cash crop, is a notable example of the results of such research.

Such were some of the major Ford contributions to the betterment of agriculture and the entire nation. But many farmers regard the tractor, prime source of farm power, as a still larger Ford service to agriculture.

For the Fordson Tractor that came on the market in 1917 was the world's first mass-produced, really low-priced tractor. Fordsons went to the farms one-half million strong, powerful proof that they met basic needs.

Today's Ford Tractor

The name "Ford" on a tractor today means engineering experience, manufacturing skill, and volume production resources that few machines in any field command. These factors provide the Ford Tractor's high quality, low price.

Outstanding performance is another reason for Ford tractor popularity. That helps assure its high resale value, as does the certainty that parts can always be had.

To the nation's farmers, getting ready for more efficient and abundant production, Ford Farming means better work, more production!

Maybe you're missing something BIG

We know you feel when a car has given you faithful service. You like it. You're loyal to it. And that's only human.

But just suppose you found out that some other car could make familiar roads seem a lot smoother.

Suppose some other car held the curves in a way you'd never felt before.

Suppose some other car had more thrilling power—steered like a dream—held its course like an airliner on the beam—and let you finish a long day's drive feeling daisy fresh.

Wouldn't you feel you're missing something big unless you tried it out?

There is such a car. Its name is Buick.

It has big soft coil springs on every wheel. It has a Fireball Engine. It has a "front-end geometry" that does miracles with steering. And it has Dynaflow Drive.

And incidentally, it wears a price tag that makes it a very smart buy compared to anything else you own.

We'd like to have you try this car. You'll never know what you're missing till you do.

How about giving us a call—or coming in to see us real soon?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

*Standard on BIRMINGHAM, optional on other Buick models.
